Mill-Town Festival Scheduling Nears Completion For Aug. 15-18

Final coordinating of the 1st Annual Mill-Town Festival, to take place at Grayling on August 15-18th, moves into finalization this week. Anyone who wishes to participate must contact the Chamber of Commerce office no later than July 26th as schedules will be printed at that time.

"Chum" and Marilyn Longworth, as well as the Board of Directors of the Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce, wish to thank the Mill-Town Merchants of Grayling, the various service clubs, Chamber members, the many organizations of Crawford County, and other individuals who have been so cooperative in their combined efforts to make this event possible. It is this team spirit which makes Grayling a great place to work - to live - and to play.

Summer Band Begins Monday

Over 220 members of the Crawford AuSable Schools Band Program will begin summer band rehearsals this coming week. Regular group lessons and ensembles will make up the bulk of the program, but many special classes are offered this summer.

Each Monday, lessons in Oboe and Bassoon Reed making will be offered. In this class, students will learn the art of taking raw cane, string, and a preconstructed metal tube, and shaping them into workable double reeds which they will use to perform on their instruments.

Also on Monday, boys and girls of all ages will be able to take lessons in Baton twirling. Anyone interested will be expected to supply his or her own baton. The cost is approximately $2.00. [see Band on page 2]

Pleasure Boating Class

The Crawford County Sheriff's Department announced that it will offer one more Pleasure Boating Class before the season ends. The class will be taught by DNR certified instructors of the Marine Patrol.

The class is aimed at youngsters age 12 through 15 years who need a boating certificate if they want to operate a 6 or more horse-power motor boat without adult supervision. However, Deputy Hemming of the Crawford Co. Marine Patrol encourages anyone interested in boating safety to attend.

The class will be for two days, August 6 and 7, from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on both days. The classes will be held in the building right next to building #117 at Camp Grayling. This is directly across from the Camp Commanders Office, there will be a sign out front.

This class is offered free of charge and students should register with the Sheriff's Office at 348-6341.

DEDICATE CORNELL ATHLETIC FIELD—In ceremonies Tuesday afternoon, July 16, the athletic complex behind the new high school was dedicated the Cornell Athletic Field in honor of Willard "Butch" Cornell, who was coach of all sports at Grayling High School for 15 years. Mr. Cornell passed away in July of 1972. In October 1972, the school board passed a resolution to name the field in memory of "Butch." Shown above at left, Fraser Dean, Superintendent of Schools, making the dedication, Father John Carlton, who gave the invocation, Mrs. Cornell, daughters, Nancy and Barbara, Dick Auman, President of Booster Club, Jim Kolka and Gwen Johnson, members of school board, and William Joseph, Board of Education President.

AuSable Canoe Race Starts 10p.m. Friday

The 27th Annual AuSable River Canoe Marathon sets off from Grayling on Friday night, July 26th, at 10:00 p.m. Some 40 professional racing teams will attempt a 240-mile run down the AuSable River to Oscoda. More than half of them will not make the finish line.

The professionals will be vying for $4,000 in prize money for the first 15 places to the finish line. $1,000 will go to the first-place team. A record time of 14 hours - 56 minutes - 20 seconds was set last year.

Paddlers will have to contend with the darkness...probably past the Mio Dam. The first place finisher should arrive in Oscoda by 1:00 p.m., Saturday, July 27th. Numerous vantage points are available at the terminal roads which end at the River, on the various bridges, and at the 6 power dams which will have to be portaged by the racing teams.

The AuSable River Canoe Race Marathon is one of the six major races on the World Cup Canoe Racing Circuit. The first race on the circuit is the Gen. Clinton Canoe Regatta in New York State-the second, the Mt. Pleasant Daily Times News Canoe Race at Mt. Pleasant, Mich.-the third, the AuSable River Marathon Canoe Race-the fourth, the North Bay Ontario Canoe Race-fifth, the Mt. Laurier in Quebec-and the sixth, the Shawinigan-also in Quebec. The World Cup recipient is that team with the greatest number of points for the six races.

Of the six races in the World Cup Circuit, the AuSable River Marathon is the longest race. The professional racing teams will include teams from the Pacific Northwest as well as the Yukon.

Allan Carr and Delbert Case of Grayling made up the team that won the very first Marathon Canoe Race back in 1947. The Bissonette Brothers - Bud and Hugh - of Oscoda have a record of winning the Marathon twice, while the team of Jay Stephan and Ted Engler, Jr. of Grayling and Gaylord, and Bernard Fowler and Don Feldhauser of Grayling, each hold the Tom Marston Memorial Trophy for having won the Marathon three successive times, to have qualified them for permanent possession of the Trophy.

Camp Grayling Busy With Changing of The Guard

2,700 Buckeye guardsmen of the 107th Armored Cavalry Regiment, Ohio National Guard, arrived at Camp Grayling over the weekend to begin their 2 week summer encampment.

The camp was a virtual beehive over the weekend with the arrival of the Buckeyes, and the departure of the 157th Field Artillery Group for their homes in the Detroit area.

The 107th was ordered to train at Camp Grayling in an 11th hour decision by Fifth Army Command Headquarters in San Antonio, Texas. The Regiment had previously been assigned to train in Texas, but was changed to Camp Grayling due to the energy crisis.

Activities scheduled during the two-week training period for the 107th, will include field maneuvers and practice firing of heavy artillery and other weapons.

Joining the 107th for the 2 weeks, will be 352 U.S. Army Reserves, along with supporting units, to undergo their summer training period.

A total of 53 US Army Reserve officers and men of Kentucky's 100th Division Maneuver Training Command are here to conduct six Army Training Tests for the Ohio Army National Guard Regiment. The tests are administered at the conclusion of basic unit training to determine the combat readiness of each company size unit. They are conducted in a simulated combat situation against "aggressor" forces over a two-day period for each test.

Heading up the MTC test team is Lt. Col. Charles W. Gray, Test Director, who is one of the Reservists bringing his family along for canoeing on Lake Margrethe. The Chief Umpire for the six tests is Lt. Col. Lee G. Harris, a member of the North Carolina National Guard until he joined the MTC in Louisville last April.

The 100th Div. MTC arranged to have the Kentucky Air National Guard shoot a photomap of a large area around Camp Grayling on July 11th, and will donate a copy to the Crawford County Courthouse. The photos were taken from 30,000 feet and will assist the MTC in updating their old military maps.

The entire 107th Armd Cav Regt, totaling 4,100 men are tentatively scheduled to train here in 1975, according to Col. Edmund Rutkowski, Camp Grayling Commander. This increase, along with the return of the main bodies of the Indiana and Ohio guard would bring the total in excess of 29,000 guardsmen using the facilities next summer, Col. Rutkowski said.

The largest contingent numbering 5,689, troops of the Michigan National Guard, will wind up this summer's training during the period of August 3-17.

4-H Club Leaders Needed

By Betty Webb
4-H Aide

4-H is a club whose members are interested in learning about a certain subject. While learning a skill they also have a chance to develop leadership qualities, poise, self assurance, and learn how to work with others. 4-H is an organization for young people between the ages of 9 - 19 which offers them a chance to learn by doing and having fun. It is supported through the Cooperative Extension Service with funding from Michigan State University, and from federal, state and local governments.

Each group has a leader who has volunteered their time to help the members learn about different projects such as sewing, leather crafts, horsemanship, cooking, conservation... the list goes on and on. The leader is there to guide the 4-H club members while they plan their projects and carry them out. They share valuable information which they alone have with the members of their group.

Everyone has at least one skill which someone else would like to learn. You do, too. Discover the benefits of helping [see 4-H Club on page 14]

BOATING SAFETY

by Deputy Don Hemming

The Crawford County Sheriff's Department Marine Division would like to advise the public of some safety tips and of our activities.

The Marine Patrol is there for the benefit of the public. People see us on the lakes and rivers checking safety equipment, but we are also available for other activities. Our purpose is water safety. We are available for courtesy inspections. If you call our office (348-6341) we will give your boat a free safety inspection. We check such items as life saving devices, fire extinguishers, and navigation lights. This inspection holds no penalty to the owner. We will only inform him of anything that needs correcting. We also encourage the owner to ask us questions as we go along. If the boat passes our inspection we will then give the owner a decal from The Michigan Sheriff's Association to place on his boat.

We would like to pass on some safety tips for safe operation. With a little care, and a touch of common sense, almost every accident can be prevented.

1. Before leaving shore in your boat, check for safety devices and make a routine inspection of your boat for needed repairs.

2. Make sure you have a [see Boating on page 14]

The Youth Rehabilitation Camps, Camp LaVictoire near Grayling and Camp Nokomis near Prudenville are operated by the Department of Social Services, Office of Children and Youth Services (OCYS). Other programs providing institutional care for adjudicated youths in Michigan are the W. J. Maxey Training School and Green Oaks Center near Whitmore Lake, the Adrian Training School in Adrian and Arbor Heights Center in Ann Arbor. As the youths committed to the Department vary in their needs for services, controls and structure the institutions designed to meet their needs must also vary in the kinds of programming they offer.

Camps are designed to meet the needs of the mildly delinquent youth who can profit from a very open work oriented program with many of its activities based in the communities. In camps the youth must learn to rely on his own controls and to learn to make many decisions for himself.

Arbor Heights Center is a coeducational program designed for generally younger children in need of a rather intensive treatment program.

The Adrian and W. J. Maxey Training Schools are larger open campus programs with a much higher degree of structure available to those youths who need structure and supervision.

Green Oak Center is a small unit designed for youths who need an intensive experience within a secure, highly structured setting.

The new camp being constructed at Howes Lake near Grayling is costing $860,000.00. Twenty-five per cent (25%) of this amount, or $215,000, is from State funds and seventy-five per cent (75%), or $645,000, is from the Office of Criminal Justice and is a Federal LEAA Grant. LEAA is the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

GRAYLING, MICHIGAN—THURSDAY, JULY 25, 1974

Trudeau played it straight

From The Flint Journal

THE SMASHING victory of Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's Liberal party speaks well for the judgment of the Canadian electorate and offers some lessons for Americans facing elections of their own.

Trudeau confounded the pundits by astutely turning the nation's grave inflation problem into a weapon against those who attempted to foist onto the public easy answers to complex questions.

Robert Stanfield, leader of the Progressive Conservatives, had proposed a wage and price freeze for 90 days following by 18 months of flexible controls. All Trudeau had to do to remove the punch from that outwardly attractive idea was to point across the border into the United States. With that, Stanfield's proposal began to look very much like the Nixon administration's notably unsuccessful wage-and-price control strategy.

The idea of riding along with Trudeau must have taken new appeal then, even though he offered no simplistic solutions of his own, because instead of leading a largely helpless minority government he now boasts a healthy majority.

Naturally, Trudeau did not come across as disinterested in an inflation rate of well over 20 per cent. He hitched his political star to an economic growth rate that can only rise swiftly in the years ahead, given Canada's abundance of natural resources, and the workings of a free market. In the shadow of that bright prospect, rigid controls that had already proved futile next door could not have seemed very attractive. Another asset was his charismatic appeal, which was unintentionally emphasized by the blandness and stumblings of his political foes.

Trudeau's wisdom of not feeding the electorate the meaningless pap of miracle cures for inflation ought to be heeded on our side of the border. Reason, reality and honest hope triumphed over those who sought salvation through bureaucratic restrictions.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

On Marijuana

The present use of marijuana is often compared to the use of alcohol during the probation era. It is claimed to be the best kept secret of our day. It is estimated that close to seven million pounds of marijuana and hashish were consumed in the U.S. last year.

In the fight to legalize marijuana, it is constantly being compared with alcohol. It is claimed that marijuana does not harm the body like alcohol. It is not physically habit forming, stimulates the appetite rather than becoming a food substitute and does not kill if taken in excess. It is argued that if alcohol is legal, marijuana should be also.

The following arguments can be used against the legalizing of marijuana:

1. The legalized use of alcohol which is wrecking millions of lives in our nation today, is a poor argument for allowing another drug to produce more of the same thing, or even worse.

2. A person realizes he is getting drunk and his physical activity slows until he passes out from too much alcohol. The marijuana user is not aware of his inability, and his physical activity is not slowed with increased intake. The increased danger to himself and society is self evident.

3. The alcohol user may "enjoy" his drinking without getting drunk. The user of marijuana must get high to "enjoy" it.

4. One or two drinks a day normally do not effect a person, while one or two reeferers can produce marijuana intoxication.

5. Latest research indicates definite physical harm from the use of marijuana. The U.S. News and World Report, dated June 10, 1974, published a research report entitled "the perils of 'Pot' start showing up." Some of the following finds were reported: Prof. W.D.M. Paton, professor of pharmacology at Oxford said cannabis interferes with cell division and cell metabolism and may effect adolescent development. (Cannabis is the name of the dried parts of the hemp plant from which marijuana and hashish come). Dr. Gabriel Nahas, physiologist and pharmacologist at Columbia University states that marijuana smoking leads to a significant lowering of the white blood cells which in turn lowers the body's ability to combat disease. Dr. Akira

The Bud Denno Family

There's an old saying that you're never too old to learn. Well, Saturday, Jack learned a great deal that was new to him. He worked all day at Jim's Canoe Livery, wife of the late, great Jim Wakeley. Jeanne carries on the same fine service they had before Jim's unfortunate and untimely death last fall. But she was attending some wedding and I volunteered to help out. Now I have never driven a rig full of canoes, never loaded more than one canoe in my life and never done all the things these hard working livery operators do. Like threatening the users with their very lives if they misbehave. Anyway, we had 21 canoes to pick up at McMaster's Bridge. Borchers Canoe Livery and Ray's Canoe Livery were there too. And everyone helped everyone else. Except I couldn't be much help, because when it comes to those top canoes on a carrier, believe me, I have had the course. The pleasant young fellow from Borchers showed me an easy way to flip a canoe to put it on the top rack, and things became a little bit easier. When I was there by myself I acted like a real pro and told one of my customers how to do it and blamed him when things went wrong. He thought I really knew what I was doing and I didn't enlighten him one damn bit. Besides he was twenty or thirty years younger than I was, so I sort of pulled rank on him.

Al and Cappy Westervelt were there, too. Al is no spring chicken, by any means, yet that guy carries his own canoes alone and can load a seventh canoe on top of six and/or a third canoe on top of two already on a big van. I couldn't believe it. I have a tough enough time even dragging an empty canoe. I also learned, after getting drenched a couple of times, to empty water out of the canoe before you load it. Combinations of clay and water flowing down your head do not beautify. By the way, Cappy Westervelt is no longer going to be teaching in the Crawford County area. She's going to Florida. Quite a few kids, including one of mine, who "went to school to her" are going to miss her. She's a great gal. Al is joining her when his "season" is over.

Al and I were standing in the shade of his big van that day and Cappy was inside, when a car drove up. Out got an elderly man who for the next fifteen minutes went through one of the funniest routines we had ever heard. I wish I could remember it all, but I do recall his saying that he came to that landing quite often to watch the "scenery" girls in bikinis. It was something Al and I were doing, too - he covertly with Cappy there, and I practically foaming at the mouth. I don't know whether girls nowadays are getting better developed or bikinis are getting smaller, but take my word for it "June is Busting Out All Over." There must have been some gal named June. This gentleman also told us he was writing a book. The title was "How To Tune A Sleeping Bag." His wife allowed him thirty five minutes a week for research and it took him twenty five minutes to drive to a campground and back. That left him ten minutes

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank Drs. Henig and Blaha, the nurses, the hospital staff and all my friends for visits and cards and a special thanks to Bernice Lennert for the flowers she made. Everything was greatly appreciated.

VOTE FOR Earl H. "Chum" Longworth

"REPUBLICAN"

Crawford County Board of Commissioners.....District 2

As Chairman of the Crawford County Board of Commissioners, it is my duty to be aware of the various legislative matters which the State of Michigan passes down to County Government.

THE COMPLEXITY OF COUNTY GOVERNMENT HAS BEEN GREATLY COMPOUNDED DURING THE PAST SEVERAL YEARS BECAUSE OF STATE LAWS WHICH DICTATE TO THE COUNTY WHAT THEY MUST DO IN MATTERS OF ZONING - BUILDING CODES - SEDIMENTATION CONTROLS - SANITARY LANDFILLS - EQUALIZATION AND ASSESSING - JAIL RULES.....JUST TO MENTION A FEW OF THE AREAS IN WHICH THE STATE DIRECTS THAT A COUNTY MUST SERVICE.....AND YET THE STATE DOES NOT PROVIDE MONIES TO THE COUNTY TO PAY FOR THESE SERVICES.

A plague on her

It was Dominion Day in Toronto, something like our 4th of July, and I figured that was why hotel management had stolen my car. They couldn't fool me; I've seen too many movies.

Obviously, my wife Pat had dropped dead of the plague and the Toronto Tourist Assoc. was afraid of losing money.

This tragedy began immediately after we checked into the world's largest Holiday Inn, in downtown Toronto. A bell boy assured me he would get my wife and luggage up to our room. He said I should go park my car in the underground garage and we'd all get together later for fun and tips.

I agreed, thus bringing quick tears to Pat's eyes. She embraced me warmly and lovingly whispered in my ear: "Where is the key to our safety deposit box?"

This was her snide way of reminding me that I have a tendency to get lost while traveling. She keeps remembering the time we were staying at a Howard Johnson's and I went to play golf without her and then returned to the right room but the wrong Howard Johnson's.

The crack about the safety deposit box meant Pat thought there was no way I could escape an underground garage without her, and therefore she would soon be reading my insurance policies and last will and testament. (Wait until she finds out I'm leaving everything to the Traveler's Aid Society.)

Anyway, I was determined to prove her wrong. As I wound my way down into the garage, I remembered Hansel and Gretel. But I didn't have any cookie crumbs to drop. So, please excuse the vulgarity but appreciate the cleverness, I occasionally spit out the window. The plan was to follow the saliva trail back to the surface. And it worked.

I parked in Stall 34, immediately writing 34 on my notepad, shirt and chest. I had almost completed the walk back up to the hotel when I remembered I'd left my reading glasses in the car. I was planning a lot of reading the next 4 days (wine lists), so I went back to Stall 34 for the glasses.

My brown Oldsmobile was gone. Parked in its place was a green Ford, no relation. I double checked my notes and the stall sign. 34. There was no mistake.

In less than 5 minutes, my car had been wiped off the earth. It was mysterious, astounding. It was as though I'd never been there; never checked into the hotel at all.

Suddenly, I realized that was it. I remembered that oft-told tale about the mother and daughter who went to the Paris Exposition around the turn of the century. The daughter left her mother in hotel room number 321 for a few minutes. When she returned, there was no Room 321 and no mother. The hotel management insisted the 2 women had never even checked in. The bell boy who carried their bags a few hours earlier swore he'd never seen the 2 women. And so on...

It was a long time before the mystery was solved. The explanation was that the mother had died of the dreaded plague. The hotel manager knew news of the plague would send all the tourists running for home. The Exposition would flop and local businessmen would lose millions. So Room 321 was boarded over and the death was covered up to save the tourist industry.

There was only one thing to do. I went to the hotel bar to await the end of the Dominion Day celebration at which time Toronto businessmen would doubtless return my car. I made a note on my chest to remind me to ask them about Pat's body, too.

I was explaining the note to a skeptical bartender when Pat walked in. She soon explained that the parking garage had 2 levels with a Stall 34 on each level and I'd probably parked on the 1st level and searched on the second.

It turned out she was right, on the level, as usual.

A plague on her would be a good idea.

CARD OF THANKS

On behalf of my husband, Howard and myself, I wish to thank the Missionary ladies of the Free Methodist Church for the lovely shower they put on for me. My heartfelt thanks also to those who attended for the many lovely gifts. It's a wonderful feeling to have so many kind friends. May God bless you one and all.

Fiscal reports only beginning

It is fashionable these days for public officials and those who seek public office to call a press conference and tell the waiting world all about their personal financial situation.

Somewhat this type of financial disclosure by politicians is claimed to throw fresh air on the political process. To me, it usually seems like either bragging...or appealing for sympathy.

When Gov. William G. Milliken announced he was running for a new term, almost simultaneously he got the press boys together in Lansing and went over his financial statement.

Yes, Virginia, he is a millionaire, mainly by virtue of family holdings in the Milliken department stores up north.

The other two leading candidates for governor this year—Democrats Sander Levin and Jerry Cavanagh—are baring their bank statements, too.

Milliken's comments are typical of those who promote financial disclosure by public officials:

"Those who choose public life must recognize it is a goldfish bowl, and they have a responsibility to help assure a clear view from the outside."

Financial disclosure in this year of Watergate, Milliken indicated, is one of several steps he's taken "to assure political campaigns in Michigan are open and accountable."

Exactly how financial disclosures of the Milliken type "assure a clear view from the outside," or how they "assure political campaigns...are open and accountable" is somewhat beyond my ken.

But that's what the politicians in the white hats are claiming, so it must be true.

Milliken, Levin and Cavanagh are not alone in favoring—or at least agreeing to—financial disclosure.

Common Cause has made this a vital element of clean elections, which in turn is a vital element of the Common Cause existence.

Fiscal disclosure is also a cornerstone of election reform programs at both the state and national level, with hardly a voice speaking out against it.

As Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois—another millionaire—comments:

"Public trust has been so frequently and flagrantly abused that some form of significant disclosure—especially by candidates for national office—is in the public interest."

Sen. Frank Church of Idaho says:

"Because Congressmen write the laws that affect business, write the taxes that corporations and individuals must pay, and vote on legislation which reaches the entire economy, there is legitimate reason for making their private holdings a public matter."

All of these are good points, and very difficult to counter.

But personally, I'm not in favor of mandatory financial disclosure. I think it's a bit too much to require of candidates for public office that they bare their bank books—unless they want to do so. Because some candidate or public official chooses to remain silent, in my opinion, is nothing that should be held against him or her.

If financial disclosure should become required of all public officials, it would not mean that these officials were honest or clean or objective; it would only mean that they have listed the financial details that they chose to list.

If some public official is a crook, who will use his public office to enrich himself, what makes anybody think that he'll be honest and complete in disclosing his interests?

Public disclosure won't make an honest man out of a thief, and it may have the reverse effect of lulling the public into a sense of false security.

Crawford County Board of Commissioners — District #1

Dear Neighbors and Friends:

In the last election I requested your support and received it. In electing me as County Commissioner you asked me to represent you the people of District #1 at the County Level, I have done this to the best of my ability.

If you have followed the minutes of the County Board of Commissioners, you know that I have had perfect attendance and a voting record second to none.

The following list of accomplishments of the past two[2] years that I think you should be aware of—I was very instrumental in the NO Hunting area around our new High School and the installation of the passing lanes in front of the school. There is being installed, a blinker light at the corner of Co. Road 612 and Old 27, [by the way, this has been requested for the last 18 to 20 years]. We have had some road work done for water control that has been needed for quite some time, [I hope to get some other areas in the very near future]. I was the originator of the Drug Lab Grant, Elected Vice President of the Northern Association of Counties, [which is 29 Counties], I was responsible for the ambulance in Frederic Twp., [with the approval of Twp. Board], Chairman of Road and Bridges [Co. Road Comm.].

I am hoping that by this letter of information that you the voters of Dist. #1, [Frederic and Maple Forest] will once again support me in the upcoming election, Aug. 6 Primary.

If you have any questions of this matter or anything else in regards to County business, please call me at home, 348-8122 after 6 p.m.

Maxwell-Letts Vows Spoken

The wedding of Patricia N. Maxwell and Clarence A. Letts, Jr. took place on Saturday, June 15, at one o'clock at Michelson Memorial United Methodist Church.

Rev. Paul Frederick officiated at the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Bunker of Grayling and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Letts, Sr. of Roscommon.

The organist was Debbie Nethers. Musical selections presented were "The Wedding Song" and "Midsummer Night's Dream."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, approached the altar in a floor length gown of white lace with yellow ribbon running lengthwise of the dress. It was of organza over taffeta and featured a rounded neckline and was made and designed by the bride. She wore a shoulder length veil with organza rosebuds made by Mrs. Jean Compton of Kalkaska and carried a bouquet of yellow baby roses with daisy mums around the outside.

The maid of honor was Cathy Klinefelt of Grayling. Her dress, which was also made by the bride, was of yellow organza with a white daisy pattern. She carried a bouquet of white daisy mums.

Harold Conner, Jr. of Roscommon served as best man and Martin Letts and James Walker were ushers.

Church decorations consisted of two baskets of yellow roses and white daisy mums prepared by the mother of the maid of honor.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bunker wore a floor length gown of pink organza with a white daisy pattern. The groom's mother wore a floor length gown of green organza with a daisy pattern. Both dresses were also made by the bride. They wore corsages of white daisy mums.

The newlyweds greeted their many friends at the V.F.W. Hall in Roscommon before departing on a wedding trip to Northern Michigan. Upon their return, they are making their home in Roscommon.

Out of town guests attending were from Flint, Lansing, Levering, Pellston, Kalkaska, Midland, Muskegon, Grand Haven, Laingsburg, Owosso and Muskegon Heights.

Attend The Church Of Your Choice

THE SECRET

In another moment he will be getting up and walking toward you, eager to tell the secret of his calmness and strength. Will you listen?

He has solved many problems, overcome much grief and temptation, been able to meet the conditions of every-day living, all because through the Church he has come in contact with the Source of all power. In the Church he has found companionship. Its worship services have brought faith, peace and serenity. Its activities have furnished an outlet for his creative abilities and energy. The Church has been a part of his life from boyhood. Through its various departments the needs of his life have been met. He has enjoyed the fellowship there and, looking back, he is able to trace his own growth.

Have you learned his secret? Wouldn't you like to know it?

What the Church has done for him it can do for you. If you are young, it will help meet your problems. If you are older, it will bring satisfaction and peace.

ONE WEEK LEFT—Learning how to kick the feet properly is very important. Swimmers in the Crawford AuSable School summer swimming program practice many hours on dry land. With only one week left in the swimming program schedule, every swimmer is working hard to pass their individual swimming class. Instructors Gail Vaughn, Dennis Betts and Sandra Taylor watch over one hundred and forty students, ages 5-15, in six classes per day. Thanks to the Crawford County Sheriff Department for their cooperation and the use of their equipment, many students have passed the first class that they were working on and have begun on the second. Roscommon Music Society

The Roscommon Chamber Music Society presents the "Fifth Annual Fine Arts Festival," which begins July 27th with "Art in the Park" at the Riverside Park in Roscommon. From 9 a.m., visitors may view displays of arts and crafts by artists from Roscommon, Houghton Lake, Higgins Lake, St. Helen, Bay City, Saginaw, and Detroit. Pamela S. Walsh, an artist from Rochester, will serve as juror to award prizes in three categories. She will select from oils, oil acrylics, water colors, china painting, silk screen, and pastels in "flat" entries, and metal and wood sculpture, handcrafted jewelry, ceramics, brass rubbings, nature plaques, and dried flower arrangements in the "round" category. There will also be recognition for the "best of show."

The evening is designed for young people, beginning at 5 p.m. with "Free To Be...You and Me" conceived by Marlo Thomas and presented by "The Mainstreet Players" and followed by folk and popular music, performed by local young talent.

The event is designed for the family to come out and spend the day with refreshments available and supper of "Collage Stew," biscuits, salads, and coffee or lemonade from 5 to 8 p.m. at a charge of $1.75 for adults and $1.25 for children. Wednesday, July 31 will feature "Have a Nice Evening." A program of music by local musicians at 8:30 p.m. in the Riverside Park.

The third event of the Festival is a performance by Folk Dancers and Shanty Choir from Aurich, Germany in cooperation with Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp International Program. This event is slated for 8 p.m. in the Roscommon High School on Aug. 3rd. The Choir and Dance members will be guests in homes throughout the area over the weekend.

The Main Street Players will conclude the two week program with the production of three one act plays, "Passion, Poison, and Petrification," "The Case of the Crushed Petunias," and "The Zoo Story" will be presented in the Roscommon High School beginning at 8:30 p.m. the evenings of Friday and Saturday, August 9 & 10.

 someone learn, and the satisfaction you feel when they have mastered it. 4-H is a rewarding experience for the leaders as well as the members. It is fun and enjoyable.

If you have some extra time (even just a few hours) and would like to help children learn and watch them grow, become a volunteer 4-H club leader. We need you. In the Grayling area there will be a leadertraining meeting of persons interested in becoming 4-H club leaders. The meeting is scheduled for August 27, 1974 at 7:30 p.m.

For more information about 4-H leadership, contact Mrs. Vi (E.R.) Burns, Grayling 4-H Community Leader, 348-8964.

Boating

Coast Guard approved life saving device for every one on board. Remember that if a device is ripped or a strap is torn off, then it is no longer approved. Also that a child size vest or jacket is approved for a child, not an adult.

3. Do not over-load your boat. If your boat has a capacity plate then it is unlawful to exceed that limit. (Over-loading is a common cause of boating accidents).

4. Check for other equipment you may need: Fire extinguishers, navigation lights, first-aid kit, tool kit and other needed equipment that your boat or trip may warrant.

5. Last but not least, remember that all the safety equipment you carry will be useless if it is not available immediately or you are not familiar with its operation. Remember that your life and the lives of others may depend directly on you and your attitude towards safety afloat.

If you have any questions concerning boating or water safety then please call us at 348-6341. We also have a number of various safety pamphlets that are available to you free. Although enforcing water safety laws are our primary job, water safety for everyone is our biggest concern.

LIQUOR & SAFE BOATING DO NOT MIX.

Returns To Brazil

On Sunday, July 14, Miss Maria Isabel (Bebel) Targino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alberto Targino of Portaleza, Ceara, Brazil, was driven to the airport at Traverse City by her American family, the Larry McNamara's, to begin her flight home.

A "Bon Voyage" party for her was hosted by her American brother, Mike McNamara, at the "Hoot Owl" on the eve of her departure. The McNamara's received a phone call from her after her safe arrival home.

Bebel attended Grayling High School during the last semester and graduated in June. She was a delightful addition to our community and will be missed by her American family and all her many friends.
